“Jobraver” is an animation and toy series launched in April 2022. It features a story that Jobravers — robots formed by combining Jobroids (work robots) with real-life service vehicles — protect the city under the theme of “everyday jobs found in the city.” With the tagline “Everyone who works can be someone’s hero,” this series incorporates elements that children can feel emotionally attached to, such as professions that children admire, real-life vehicles, robots and heroes. The concept of “favorite service vehicles combine turning into a cool robot” and “familiar heroes who might be in your town” captivates many children. The online animation has garnered over 50 million total views^{()1} and the toy series has achieved cumulative shipments of over 1 million units^{()2} clearly making it a highly popular content. In response to this popularity, a new animation with an expanded world view will be broadcast on terrestrial TV, accompanied by a coordinated release of related toys.

The new TV animation will be approximately three times longer per episode than the previous ones (the animation part per episode of the online version is approximately 3 minutes), and the drama and action scenes will be more powerful. A cast of popular voice actors bring broad assortment of characters to life, with the main characters continuing to be played by Sanae Kobayashi and Shotaro Uzawa, who was selected as one of the Best New Voice Actors at the 19th Seiyu (Voice Actor) Awards, and Kazuyuki Okitsu playing a new character. A multitude of unique new Jobravers will enter the unfolding classic storyline where they will battle as both enemies and allies. In addition, after being broadcast on TV, episodes will be available for streaming on TOMY Company’s official YouTube channel “Takara Tomy Channel” (www.youtube.com/takaratomychannel).

In the toy series, three new sets will be introduced as “collaborative specially equipped combination” products, where vehicles of the same profession combine to power up: the “Unite Police Braver” featuring a patrol car and a police motorcycle, the “Unite Fire Braver” featuring a fire engine and a fire boat, and the “Unite Medi Braver” featuring an ambulance and a doctor-staffed air ambulance helicopter. You can play by combining the three units consisting of an armor vehicle, a unite vehicle, and a Jobroid (work robot) to recreate the combination scenes in the animation. Looking forward, new products are scheduled to be steadily launched as the animation story unfolds.

One of the appealing aspects of “Jobraver” is its corporate collaborations. New Jobravers will be developed with companies such as ENEOS Corporation, Isuzu Motors Limited, and Nihon Kotsu Co., Ltd., and they are set to appear in both the animation and toy series. Please keep a lookout for future developments.

The world of “Jobraver” extends beyond animation and toys to include a range of licensed products such as books, apparel and miscellaneous goods. At TOMY Company, we will continue to expand the transforming and combining robot series of service vehicles, such as “TOKUSO Combination Robot JOBRAVER,” and “SHINKALION,” under the brand of “Tomypla Heroes.”

(*1) A total of 37 online animation episodes, as of May 9, 2025

(*2) As of April 30, 2025
